36,000 AUSTRIANS TRAPPED
AT THE FOOT OF IL MONTELO,
DANGER POINT ON PIAVE LINE

at strategic points back of the battlefield, ready to fling into the fighting should the Austrian drive become seriously menacing, it was announced today.

The situation is reported more favorable than it was yesterday. The danger in the Montello sector is greatly lessened. Between the Brenta and the Asicco Rivers, Austrian gains were again reduced. Three Austrian attacks were repulsed between the Brenta and the Piave.

The greatest strategic danger to the Italians lay in the assault on their mountain defenses, as a major Austrian success there might have compelled withdrawal of the armies along the Piave and probable evacuation of Venice and Treviso, but the combined British, French and Italian forces have stopped the enemy in their tracks.

The Austrians, therefore, have shifted their efforts to acquisition of Il Montello, the crest guarding the northern end of the Piave line, and to the marsh land along the lower Piave.

Allied troops in the mountain region occupied Raza Pizzo, the heights southeast of Sasso and the spur of Costalunga, taking several hundred prisoners.

In the Fossalta region, the Italians pushed the Austrians back to the Piave River and captured Capodargine, cutting off the Austrians in the Meolo salient (four miles west of the river). But the Italians later were forced to fall back to the Polans line, still retaining a gain of about two-thirds of a mile. The Austrians have made a further slight gain at Montello.

The latest Austrian claim is of 30,000 prisoners and 120 guns. Both Emperor Karl of Austria and Premier Orlando of Italy are at the front.

The prosecution read letters found in Jonas's possession, dated November, 1913, written by a man named von Goutard, connected with munitions work in Berlin. The letters asked Jonas to ascertain the size, location and production of the new Vickers rifle factory, and whether it had obtained orders from the British Government. Letters from Jonas to C. A. Vernon, the co-defendant, also were read. Jonas asked Vernon, whose real name is Haber, to procure the information. Vernon is an official of the Munitions Ministry.

AMERICANS CROSS THE MARNE AND BRING BACK PRISONERS;
MACHINE GUNS SMASH RAID

Several Attempts to Enter U. S. Lines Broken Up—One Group Almost Wiped Out.

[AMERICAN REPORT]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The following communique was received today from Gen. Pershing:

"Section A—There was continued artillery fighting in the Chateau-Thierry region and on the Marne front. Last night our patrols crossed the Marne and captured several prisoners.

"Section B—There is nothing to report in this section."

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES ON THE MARNE, June 19 (Associated Press).—Several German patrols which attempted Monday night to approach the American lines in the Marne sector were smashed by the accuracy of the American machine-gun fire. One German patrol was almost wiped out.

Two German prisoners who, after escaping from a detention camp 100 miles to the rear of the American front six days ago, had wandered through woods and bushes and swam rivers in the night time, were captured in the American lines. The prisoners said they had travelled with comparative ease until they approached American territory, where it became so hot that they could not cross to the German lines.

The carefully rehearsed German attack on the American positions in the village of Xivray on Sunday morning was broken up largely by machine-gun and rifle fire. The German attack was made for the purpose of taking prisoners, according to statements made by Germans who were captured by the Americans.

The artillery barrage let down by the American gunners inflicted considerable losses on the large enemy raiding party as it crossed no man's land, but the raid was actually stopped by the hot fire from the American machine guns. The gunners everywhere stuck to their posts in the face of the attack.

At one point north of Xivray the Germans captured an American machine gun after killing or wounding the crew, but five minutes later the gun was recaptured and in the subsequent fighting the Americans also took a light machine-gun which the enemy had brought up. The German prisoners have admitted their complete defeat.

The detailed report on the Xivray action received by the commanding general today gave special praise to Lieutenants Irvin R. Doane and Edward T. Shaw, Sergeants Sullivan and Private Alva White, Alfred Le Pace, Wilmer Bradford, Emmet Sloan and Anthony Simmons for their bravery.

Lieut. Doane, with a private, proceeded through a heavy barrage to an American strong point which was virtually surrounded by the enemy. Later he called for volunteers and with the aid of the above named privates, went to the rescue of a wounded American officer being taken across no man's land by the Germans. They drove off the enemy and brought back the American to our line.

Lieut. Shaw, although lying sick in a dugout when the attack began, went through the barrage fire to rejoin his platoon.
